Cursebearer

Cursebearer is a gritty character focused adventure game. In Cursebearer a group of troubled companions delve into danger to find secrets, wealth and artefacts to break their curse. They will be worn down by the pursuit and in those moments they make their most heroic decisions.

Cursebearer is about adventurers who by necessity or nature have grown skills and strength to face foes other mortals flee from. They will fight to balance curses that attempt to devour them in pursuit of their ambitions and true freedom.

Cursebearer is about knowing your enemy. Great adversaries have secrets behind their power and with knowledge their own strength can be turned against them.

Cursebearer is about furious fights where battlefield changes constantly and clash with an enemy is always dangerous and unpredictable.

Playing Cursebearer

Party of adventurers delve into deep wilds and forgotten dungeons full of hidden knowledge, glittering gold and danger. To face these dangers they call on their prowess, skill and resilience, pushing odds to their favour. This is needed as battles are unpredictable and every clash may leave the character in a dire state.

When they are spent our adventurers draw strength from bonds and curses that guide their path invoking new powers. When it is time to rest and reflect these guides will grant them new insight on how to face danger.

Player Roles

Everyone at the table is a player, but with different roles. One player takes the role of the Bearer and other players take the role of the Adventurer. Together you create a story of adventure and gritty heroism.

The Adventurer

Adventurer is in charge of their character and shaping the adventure.

As an Adventurer you explore the game from that characters perspective solving mysteries and fighting monsters.

You interact with the world by asking questions from the Bearer and choosing actions for your character to take.

You build the world from that characters perspective by making decisions that change the world; Befriend non-player characters, aid and undermine factions and defeat legendary beasts. Before the game starts you build the world by giving your character a history with people, places and events.

The Bearer

Bearer is in charge of arbitrating rules and setting the stage for the adventure.

As a Bearer you design dungeons, cities and traps. You create non-player characters, plots and dangers for the Adventurers to investigate and instigate.

Whenever Adventurers take action you change the world in response. These changes vary from minute changes of enemy behavior to great changes that affect entire scope of the adventure.

You referee the rules. Whenever there is a conversation over how a rule should be resolved you make a final ruling with other player's input and consideration for the situation.

Every table plays the game in their own way. Important thing is to stay consistent with rulings and reinforce the type of game the table wants to play.

Rules

Dice, Numbers & Notes on rules

When dice are rolled, they decide the outcome and all around the table have to live with it.

Cursebearer uses a suite of dice from four-sided to twenty-sided (D20). Twenty-sided die is reserved for Tests, the rest are used for effects like damage and healing.

Dice rolls are abbreviated to formula "number of dice D sides on a die", 1D20 means roll one twenty-sided die and 3D6 means roll three six-sided (D6) dice.

Effects may call to increase effect die by a die type. When this happens roll next larger effect die. For example six-sided die becomes eight-sided (D8).

Effect die never increases past twelve-sided (D12). When there is no larger dice available increase effect by +1.

Effect die increase:

None -> D4 -> D6 -> D8 -> D10 -> D12 -> D12+1 -> D12+2 etc.

Rounding Numbers

Always round up.

Conflicts Between Rules

When two rules are in conflict the more specific rule takes effect. A Gift overrides a general rule for example.

No rules?

Not all situations have a rule ready. Discuss how the situation is best handled. Bearer makes the final ruling based on the Adventurer input and the situation in the game world.

Challenges

Challenges are storied moments in the adventure. For there to be a Challenge there has to be an obstacle or threat and significant stakes.

When faced with a Challenge Adventurers describe their approach. Bearer then considers whether approach fits one of three categories.

Fitting: The Adventurers approach to the Challenge is fitting, they overcome the Challenge.

Searching from the right place. A convincing argument. Spending enough time or resources.

Impossible: Challenge cannot be overcome this way. A different approach, tools or help is required.

Persuading an enemy to work against their interests. Climbing a wall of glass without tools. Jumping over a canyon. Recalling details about civilization lost to time.

Uncertain: Challenges are uncertain when approach to challenge is risky or character is under great pressure. Uncertain challenges require a Test.

Fighting. Resisting poisons. Navigating without landmarks. Avoiding hidden threats. Persuading an enemy to help you accomplish something they also want.

Stakes

Stakes are goals and Setbacks that vary from Challenge to Challenge. Success in Challenge means the Adventurers reach their goal and failure makes their lives more difficult with a Setback.

In a battle defeating an enemy is a clear goal and Setbacks are suffered blows. Attempting to avoid a pit trap risks falling into spikes at the bottom. During a journey reaching a destination is the goal and Setbacks are loss of direction and dwindling supplies. In a meeting with a villainous spy goal can be gaining their secret knowledge and Setback is rousing their suspicion.

Success at a cost is always a possible Setback. This deal can take any form but all parties have to agree to it.

Everyone at the table is welcome to suggest Setbacks. Most important thing is that something changes.

Arduous Challenges

When a Challenge is especially taxing it is an Arduous Challenge.

Arduous Challenges consists of several Steps resolved one at a time. Each Step is an individual Challenge. Involved Adventurers describe their approach to the current Step.

Like a regular Challenge approach can be Fitting, Impossible or Uncertain.

Each success advances the Arduous Challenge into Adventurers' favour, each failure causes a Setback.

If Adventurers gain as many or more successes as they suffer Setbacks they win the Challenge. If more Setbacks are suffered they end up in a new situation and the chance to solve the Challenge in this manner has passed.

When there are more Adventurers than Challenges two or more Adventurers can work together on a Challenge one making the Test and the other helping.

Intense negotiations, journeys, scaling a cliff, ritual magic, chases and montaging an infiltration can be resolved as Arduous Challenges.

Arduous Stakes

Arduous Stakes are resolved in two stages. There is the Setback from current Step and Setback from failing the entire Challenge. Setback from current can be Burden, triggering a trap or increasing Trouble. Setback from the entire Challenge means Adventurers do not reach their goal and end up in a new situation.

Example Challenge

Arduous Challenge can be used to montage an infiltration of a chamber in a small keep. Bearer sets following Challenges, outer wall, open yard and unknown passages.

First Challenge the Adventurers face is the outer wall. They could scale it as an Uncertain Challenge, but luckily they have learned about a tunnel leading to the castle well. Taking the tunnel makes the approach Fitting.

Second Challenge is an open yard. They decide to wait until dark to attempt sneaking through making the approach Uncertain.

Third Challenge is finding the chamber. Without a map or a guide this is an Uncertain Challenge.

If the Adventurers fail two of the Challenges they are caught.

Obstacles & Threats

Obstacles

Obstacles bar the path forward. They are often static and may force character to choose a different approach. Locked door, jagged ravine and strong currents are obstacles. Situationally a bridge knight or jailkeeper can take the role of an obstacle.

Obstacle can become a Threat if the approach goes wrong.

Threats

Threats cause harm and hindrances.

Adversaries are active. They investigate suspicious events, attack those who are in their way and lay traps for unsuspecting enemies. Direct confrontation with an Adversary is a Conflict, see Conflict chapter for more details.

Hazards are static. They remain in place until removed or act in easily predictable manner. Traps, poisons, cliffside with loose stones, storms and burning buildings are Hazards. Passive Adversaries can be resolved as Hazards.

Lasting Threats

Lasting Threats are part of the environment or lingering Hazards such as blood clotting poison and sleep inducing mist.

Lasting Threat is resisted when the character comes into contact with the Threat and at the end of their Turn if they remain threatened.

Success in resisting Lasting Threat protects from the Threat for now but does not end it. Poison can be resisted for one round but in a moment poison affects the character again if it still has some Duration.

Some Lasting Threats are actively held, for example being snatched into jaws of a dragon or being affected by Focus Magic. These Threats provoke Tests at the start of the Turn until the hold is broken.

Lasting Threat Duration

When a Lasting Threat has a static Duration it is measured with a number of Tests. A poison with a Duration of three provokes three Tests from the Victim and affects them on failed Tests.

Tests

To make a Test roll 1D20 and add appropriate bonuses to the roll. If the result is equal or greater than the Difficulty Rating the Test succeeds.

There are three types of Tests.

Prowess Test: Prowess tests jumping, fighting, tracking and action in general. Adventurer describes the action and Bearer chooses Prowess to add as a bonus to the Test.

Defense Test: Defense tests reflexes, resilience willpower and endurance. When the character is directly threatened Bearer chooses Defense to add as a bonus to the Test.

Burden Test: Burden Tests are made to test characters ability to resist significant setbacks, Curses, panic or starvation. Bearer chooses the Defense to add as a bonus to the Test.

Difficulty of Burden Tests is increased by characters current Burden.

Bonuses

When character makes a Test they can gain bonuses from the following.

Prowess or Defense, Skill, Exhaust, Help and one tool or supply.

Great and Doomed Effort

Great Effort: When roll on the die comes up as 20 Test succeeds and the character gains an additional benefit.

Doomed Effort : When roll on the die comes up as 1. Test fails and the character suffers an additional setback.

Difficulty

Difficulty of Obstacles and Hazards is a static number that has to be met or exceeded for a Test to succeed. 10 is the base Difficulty.

Opposed Tests

To resolve actions between active adversaries both parties make a Test. Difficulty is the opponents Test. Higher result wins.

- Great Effort beats normal result
- Doomed Effort always loses
- In case of a tie Test again

When dealing with a static effect created by an adversary, a hiding place, trap or poison, Difficulty is their passive Prowess.

Degree & Difficulty ratings

Degree

Degree represents quality of success and severity of failure when making a Test.

Meeting the Difficulty is a normal success. Roll your damage die, overcome an obstacle or gain an answer. Reaching a higher Test result increases the Degree.

- Every 10 points of difference between Difficulty and the result increases Degree by one
- Great and Doomed Effort increase Degree by one
- In Opposed Tests count only the winners Degree

Higher Degree grants greater effect. Common effects include:

- Add +1 die to damage. +1D4 if there is no damage die
- Gain an additional piece of information, heal an additional Wound etc.
- Remove or gain one Burden

When Test fails, Degree is reversed and severity of the setback increases. Traps and adversaries deal additional damage or character gains a Disadvantage to a following Test.

Difficulty Ratings

10 Uncertain. Base difficulty

15 Difficult

20 Famed. At the limit of most mortals

25 Heroic. Beyond the ability of most mortals

30+ Legendary. Demands great ability and effort

Advantage, Disadvantage & Teamwork

Advantage & Disadvantage

Advantage and Disadvantage are benefits and complications that dramatically alter a beings chances of success.

Advantage: Roll an additional die for each Advantage and choose the highest result.

Example sources for Advantage:

- Dedicating Significant Time
- Successful preparation
- Situational advantage such as a surprise

Disadvantage: Roll an additional die for each Disadvantage and choose the lowest result.

Example sources for Disadvantage:

- Rushing a task
- Imposed hindrance, being grappled for example
- Situational disadvantage such as poor visibility

Each Advantage and Disadvantage has to come from a different source.

Advantages and Disadvantages negate each other. Having three Advantages and two Disadvantages results in having just one Advantage.

Teamwork

Adventurers can help each other face challenges by working together.

Help: Each character that is able to help in a meaningful way adds +1 bonus to a Test.

Set-up: Create an Advantage for another character by setting them up for success. This is often its own Challenge.

Burden & Exhaust

Burden

Burden is accumulated strain from mortal and mystical sources. Backbreaking weight, lack of food, creeping dread and pushing your limits increase Burden.

- When a character faces a source of Burden their Burden increases by strength of the source, usually 1 + Degree of failure
- Burden has a threshold of 5 + half the characters Level. When Burden rises past the threshold make a Burden Test. On failure character suffers a Wound
- Burden can be removed by taking a Rest or a Downtime

Exhaust

Character can Exhaust, themselves increasing Burden by one and taking one of the following Benefits.

- Gain +2 bonus on a Test
- Use Exhaust option of an ability. Abilities requiring Exhaustion are marked with a [Exhaust]
- Lead a group action

Character can Exhaust multiple times for a single event but has to choose a different option each time, unless stated otherwise.

Burden Sources

Burden comes from the following sources:

- Exhaust: Character pushing their limits increases Burden
- Straining Setback: Failing a Test against straining Hazard or obstacle increases Burden and may provoke a Burden Test
- Straining Attack: Failing a Test to resist straining attack increases Burden and may provoke a Burden Test
- Possessions: Carrying too many or too heavy possessions increases Burden

Persistent Burden

Burden cannot be reduced below Persistent Burden value without first removing the cause.

Persistent Burden is gained from:

- Possessions. Get rid of the troublesome items to remove the Burden
- Ritual magic. End the Ritual to remove the Burden
- Afflictions. Cure the Affliction to remove the Burden

Burden Test & Afflictions

Burden Test

Burden Test is provoked by a threat of suffering a Curse, an Affliction or a significant hindrance.

- Burden Test is made with Reflex, Vigor or Will Defense
- Burden Test has Difficulty 10 + characters current Burden
- When Burden Test fails character suffers a Curse, an Affliction or other Setback
- Greater Degree of success on a Burden Test reduces characters Burden by one

Situations that provoke a Burden Test:

- Deadly Blow: Suffering damage over the last Wound provokes a Burden Test. Vigor Test for physical damage, Will Test for mental damage
- Deprivation: Lack of sleep, pushing on past physical limits, starvation and unforgiving environments provoke Burden Test for Vigor
- Initiative: Starting a Conflict provokes a Burden Test for Reflex
- Sickness: Mortal diseases and magical blights provoke Burden Test for Vigor

- Stirring Curse: Stirring Curse provokes a Burden Test. See Guides and Curses for more details
- Faltering Will: Facing panic or a bout of madness provokes a Burden Test for Will

Afflictions

Affliction is a persistent negative effect, commonly diseases, symptoms of faltering mind and breaking body.

- Affliction affects the character until successfully removed
- Character can suffer the same Affliction multiple times, the effects will stack
- Healing Test during Downtime is the most common way to get rid of an Affliction

Trouble Check

While adventuring in dangerous places Bearer makes Trouble Checks for unexpected Setbacks. Trouble Check is made:

- Every Round of Conflict to check if an adversary is able to recover dangerous abilities
- When Significant or Long Time passes. See Time for more details
- When the Trouble Rating increases

Trouble Check is made with a six-sided-die (D6). When the roll is equal or under Trouble rating Trouble occurs. On a roll of six something good may happen.

Trouble is a complication or a potential danger. It changes the situation introducing something new to take into account. Trouble does not automatically reveal sneaking characters or ruin current plans. Setback will remain until Adventurers take action to deal with it.

Examples of a Trouble Setback:

- Servant wandering into room
- Reinforcements arriving
- Being trailed by bounty hunters or beasts
- Being denied services on a rumor
- Supports of a crumbling bridge finally giving up
- Dangerous storm rising

Trouble Rating

Trouble is rated from 1 to 5 depending on likelihood of unforeseen setbacks.

1 - Some likelihood of Trouble. Borders of civilization and desolate dwellings. Low bounties.

2 - Chance of Trouble. Deep wilds, shady alleys and lived dwellings. Medium bounties.

3 - High chance of Trouble. Hunting grounds of beasts and alert dwellings. High bounties.

4 - Great chance of Trouble. Fully alert and hostile environments. Grand bounties.

5 - Chaos. Heart of a hostile land.

Changing Trouble

Dramatic events and Adventurer actions can change the Trouble rating, potentially making a safe haven dangerous. This will never raise Trouble above 5 or drop it below zero.

Setting off alarms, making new enemies, committing crimes, attracting bounties and clear signs of subterfuge increase Trouble.

Preparing camps, finding allies and safehouses, removing great threats and putting suspicions to rest decrease Trouble.

Time

Time

Time is very flexible in tabletop roleplaying games. Days of travel can be followed by seconds of fighting followed by an hour of conversation and planning. All taking an equal amount of time at the table.

Most important thing about time becomes; What changes when time passes? Mechanically three concepts are used to measure this change; Round, Significant Time and Long Time.

Round

Round is used when consequences of time passing are immediate, dire and exact order of events is important. Most commonly used during Conflict.

At the start of every Round Bearer may make Trouble Check for immediate changes. For example fire spreading or an adversary regaining use of a powerful ability.

Significant Time

Enough time to recover, dedicate to a task or channel a Ritual.

- Light sources burn out
- Spend to gain Advantage on a Test
- Rest
- Ritual magic

Significant Time passing will create minor changes. New beings may enter the area, structures may weaken etc.

Bearer will make a Trouble Check for these changes.

Long Time

Enough time to heal wounds and dedicate yourself to a craft, studies or plots. At least a full day.

- Take Downtime
- Journey a great distance

Characters require food when Long Time passes. Going without food provokes a Vigor Burden Test for Starvation.

Long Time passing will create major changes. Bearer will make a Trouble Check for changes that affect the Adventurers directly.

Timers

Bearer may keep Timers to track approach of significant events. These will advance when a Round, Significant or Long Time passes.

Distance & Pace

Distance

With distance important questions are; Is the goal within reach? If not, what does it take to reach it? Things can be out of reach due to distance or obstacles and an attempt to reach something out of reach requires either an Action, a Test or both.

Distance can be abstracted to units that describe characters relations to their surroundings. In situations where exact dimensions are important measuring distance in meters / yards is recommended.

Reach: Couple of steps. Melee.
Falling: Difficulty 10. 1D6 damage.

Close: Easy to Reach.
Falling: Difficulty 15. 1 Wound.

Near: Takes some effort to reach.
Falling: Difficulty 20. 2 Wounds.

Far: Takes a while to reach.
Falling: Difficulty 25. 3 Wounds.

Distant: Difficult to reach.
Falling: Difficulty 30. Death.

Pace

Pace describes the Distance a character can move as an Action, usually Close.

Moving through an obstacle requires a Test. On failure the movement ends.

Difficult Terrain

When terrain is difficult, possibly due to grasping vines or deep snow, make a Test against Difficulty. On success the character can move their Pace. On failure Pace is reduced by a Distance unit.

Falling

When the character lands from an uncontrolled fall they will suffer the falling setback. Succeeding in a Reflex Test to break the fall reduces setback by a Distance step. Higher Degree reduces setback by an additional step.

Character falls a Distance unit each Round.

Distance Reference

Following table can be used to convert Distance to a more precise measurement.

Distance	Squares / Hexes / Inches	Meters / Yards
Reach	1	2
Close	5	10
Near	10	20
Far	20	40
Distant	40+	80+

Stealth, Trickery, Darkness & Light

Stealth & Trickery

Adventurer can declare that their character is hiding or sneaking at any time. Tests for success are made when character is in danger of being spotted. This can be due to attempting to sneak past a foe, causing loud noise or being actively searched. On success character is Hidden.

Hidden: Hidden being or object has to be found as an action before they can be acted on. Hidden being has Advantage on Defense Tests against area attacks.

Limitations: Hiding and stealth is not possible when an adversary has clear sight of the character. Find cover or a way to distract the adversary.

Social Stealth: Situationally Presence can be used for stealth. This may require use of disguises or correct modes of conduct. Tests are made when characters actions indicate they do not belong or they come under scrutiny.

Surprise Action: Actions against other beings while Hidden are Surprise Actions and made with Advantage. Attacks reveal the attacker to all within eyesight.

Tricks: Actions can be taken to draw away attention for easier stealth. Successful trick gives Advantage on stealth.

Darkness & Light

Darkness is both a hindrance and an aid.

- Darkness obscures spaces and beings imposing Disadvantage on all attempts to act on targets within
- Targets in Complete Darkness are Hidden and have to be found first. All Tests on found targets are made with Disadvantage

Carrying light negates effects of darkness as far as the light reaches. However this comes with a cost.

- Tests to sneak while carrying a light are made with Disadvantage
- Beings in dark can see into lit areas and acting into light is not Disadvantaged

Survival

Survival challenges come into play when the Adventurers risk starvation and harsh environment. This is often the case when exploring the wild places of the world.

Survival challenges are layered on top of the other challenges the Adventurers face. Adventurers traveling through frozen tundra in search of a lost temple face the challenge of the search. On top of that are layered the challenges of dwindling food supplies and extreme cold.

Survival is tracked with a Time scale of Long Time, enough time to weaken from the lack of nourishment or for the frostbite to set in. Strain of survival provokes a Burden Test for a Survival Affliction. Fitting preparation and supplies can eliminate the need to make a Test. For example rations can be consumed to keep starvation at bay for a day.

Survival Hazard like falling through ice into cold water provokes a Test immediately and may impose Disadvantage on Tests for the long term survival challenges.

While the Adventurers are in a survival situation they can take a Survival Action once for every Long Time.

Adventurers can take the same Survival Action. Test separately or give +1 Help bonus to another.

Difficulty of the Survival Action and suitable Prowess is based on the environment.

Scavenge

Scavenge for useful Supplies. On a successful Test gain one of the following. On a higher Degree increase gain by one die.

1D6 Rations

1D4 Healing Supplies

1D4 Spell Components

Scout

Scout for dangers and places of interest. On a successful Test gain one. On a higher degree choose another.

- Choose whether to interact with a Trouble or an Event
- Map current location marking a landmark

Prepare

Setup camps, ration what is left and treat signs of Afflictions. On success grant +1 bonus to a Burden Tests against Survival Afflictions to all in the party. On higher Degree increase bonus by +1.

Journey

Travel through dangerous lands or towards an unknown destination is a Journey. If the Adventurers travel through safe lands towards a known destination only time passes.

There are two potential risks on a Journey, not finding the destination and encountering Trouble on the way.

Each leg of the Journey is mapped as an Arduous Challenge. Number of Steps is based on the distance to the next destination and the number of significant obstacles on the way. For example a three day journey across a forest split by strong rapids is a four step challenge.

Each Step takes time.

- Significant Time in a near area. Travel through a major city for example
- Long Time when traveling towards a far away destination. For example a temple five days away. Survival is added as an additional Challenge

Each Step requires navigation.

- Navigating between visible, known landmarks or via road or river does not require a Test
- Navigating without Landmarks or routes requires a Test

At least one Adventurer has to take the role of a navigator for each Step. Other Adventurers can Help granting +1 bonus to possible Tests. Navigator advances Journey towards the destination by finding paths, tracking beings and overcoming obstacles. Difficulty is set by the environment.

- Failing the Arduous Challenge means that the Adventurers are thrown off course.

Journey options

Hidden March: Add one Step to the Journey. Adversaries need to Test against the Navigators Passive Intellect to find the Adventurers.

Forced March: Complete two Journey Steps with a single challenge. Make a Vigor Burden Test against Exhaustion. This is not possible if one of the Steps is an obstacle.

Using Hexes

Hex maps are a popular way to track travel. Decide on number of hexes that represent a travel distance requiring Long Time. Fully exploring a single hex takes a Long Time.

Social Challenges

Social Challenge is an attempt to achieve a goal through conversation, connections or social pressure.

- Avoid conflict through diplomacy
- Gain sensitive information
- Gain a favour
- Gain access to services
- Change the attitude of a being

Social Challenge follows normal rules for Challenges. Adventurer describes their approach deciding among other things whether they approach through, persuasion, humor, intimidation, cunning questioning, honesty or other. Bearer considers whether approach is Fitting, Impossible or Uncertain.

When leveraging existing relationships, owed favours or key information approach might be Fitting and no Tests are necessary. This is also true if Adventurer has the right thing to say for the moment.

When the approach is Uncertain make a Presence Test.

Sometimes social approach is Impossible. Some favours are too big to ask, there is no trust or it is not in the beings nature to cooperate.

Intimidation

Threatening a being into cooperation can push them into giving information or favours they would never give otherwise, however the effect is fleeting. When the intimidated being is no longer within Adventurers sphere of influence the effect ends.

Attempts to intimidate a being within heart of their power are Impossible. Possessing key information or other leverage may change this.

Negotiation

Negotiations are an Arduous Challenge. Both sides will set up a base wish and their terms. Make a Test for each pair of terms. Success means Adventurers terms are accepted, failure means npc terms are accepted. At the end both parties commit to the agreed terms and wishes.

Challenge can be abandoned by walking away from the negotiations. Nothing is given and nothing is gained. Reputation will be damaged and new negotiations are unlikely.

Hit-points, Damage & Wounds

Adventurer characters have three pools of Hit-points that allow them to resist damage.

- When the character suffers damage reduce Hit-points from a pool by damage, one pool at a time
- When a pool is reduced to zero cross it over to mark it as Wounded, next pool suffers the remaining damage
- Wounded pool cannot recover Hit-points until the Wound is healed

Deaths Door: When the final pool is marked as Wounded the character is at Deaths Door. Npc's don't enter Deaths door.

- When a character at Deaths Door suffers damage, or a Round passes, they make a Burden Test. Failing this Test is the end.
- When a character at Deaths Door suffers a Wound they die
- As an Action another character can make a Healing Test on a character at Deaths Door. Success will change one Wound into a physical or mental Affliction. Healing Tests are made with Intellect against Difficulty 10

Changing Hit-point maximum

When the Hit-point maximum changes all pools are affected.

Damage Types

There are two damage types Physical and Mental.

Physical: Damage affects beings body. Tests are made with Vigor.

Strikes, fire, falling and blood clotting poison deal physical damage.

Mental: Damage affects beings mind. Tests are made with Will.

Bouts of madness, illusions, magical fear and touch of spectres deal mental damage.

Resistance and Vulnerability

Resistance and Vulnerability impacts incoming damage.

- Resistance reduces damage by Resistances rating, down to minimum of half damage
- Vulnerability increases damage by Vulnerability rating

There are two default Resistances in the game, Armor and Mental.

- Armor protects from external physical threats but not from internal damage or falling
- Mental Resistance protects from all mental damage

Rest & Downtime

Rest

Moment of respite allows character to do the following.

- Fully recover Hit-points to pools that are not Wounded
- Reduce Burden by 1 + half the characters Level
- If a character shares an ambition, fear, hope, idea or a secret they remove one additional Burden

Rest takes Significant Time. During Rest Bearer will make a Trouble Check. If there is Trouble the Rest is interrupted and there is no restoration.

Downtime

Extended period of time gives the character a chance to reflect on their experiences and recover from their adventures.

During Downtime do the following.

- Spend Deeds to advance
- Restore Hit-points
- Remove Burden
- Regain Strength to Guides
- Take one Downtime Action or an additional Survival Action

During Downtime Characters can go about their business and find each other whenever, unless they specifically wish to not be found.

Downtime Actions:

- Carouse
- Craft
- Earn
- Heal
- Seek

Downtime takes a Long Time. Bearer will make a Trouble Check for unforeseen events.

If there is Trouble party will have to overcome an Arduous Challenge with Steps equal to Trouble rating.

- On success they get to take their Downtime
- On failure they only have a chance to spend Deeds for advancement and restore Hit-points

Downtime Actions

Carouse

Carousing is only possible in a settlement. Spend a night on the town, living it up and getting into Trouble.

Characters participating in Carousing can roll Trouble dice by taking Carousing actions. Dice can be rolled at any time until Carousing ends.

- Once per Carouse roll a die by putting on a show
- Once per Carouse roll a die by engaging in shenanigans
- Once per Carouse roll a die by looking for love
- Roll a die by spending Coin. Roll the die and spend result times ten Coin

Every roll equal or under Trouble rating means the character gets into some Trouble. Roll 2D6 and consult the Carouse Trouble table.

Every six rolled creates a beneficial event. Roll 2D6 and consult the Carouse Events table.

At the end of Carousing Party gains 1 Deed for every 3 dice that came up as an event or Trouble.

2D6 Carouse Trouble

2-3 New Enemy. Increase Trouble rating by +1.

Downtime Actions

To create items of your craft make an Intellect + Craft Test against the items Difficulty. On a success create the item. Higher Degree allows choosing additional options. One option / Degree.

To improve existing items of your Craft make a Craft Test against items Difficulty. On a success give item an option improving its effect. One option / Degree. Item can be improved only once.

To repair an item of your Craft make a Craft Test against Difficulty 10. On a success restore item to its full functionality.

Proper workshop gives an Advantage on the Craft Test.

Conflict: Round, Initiative & Ambush

Round and Turn

Intense Conflict is split into Rounds where each participant has a chance to act. When they have this chance it is their Turn.

In a Round of Conflict participant can:

- Take two Actions on their Turn
- Respond to one event or action outside of their Turn
- Test whenever a Test is called

Once all participants have taken their Turn Round ends and a new Round begins.

Initiative

Initiative is used to track order of Turns in Conflict. It represents decisive position and ability to use full extent of the characters abilities.

Conflict is Initiated by an action someone has stakes in preventing. Attacking is an obvious Initiating action but running when told not to move could Initiate a Conflict.

After Initiating action is resolved all involved in the Conflict make a Burden Test with Reflex. Those who succeed take their Turn before Adversaries, those who fail act after.

- Adventurer can choose to delay their Turn to act after Adversaries.
- Adventurer characters can take their Turns in any order within their Initiative group
- When Adventurer characters compete for Initiative higher Test result goes first
- Followers take actions with the character they follow

Ambush

Those who succeed in sneaking up to their opponents through stealth or persuasion can take a Surprise Action before Initiative is established.

- Surprise actions are made with Advantage
- Surprise Attacks reveal the character
- Surprised beings cannot use Responses

Conflict: Response, Cover & Morale

Response

Every Round character has a chance to act in Response to an event.

Clash: Clash is a response to a threat. You can Clash in following situations.

- When you are directly threatened you can Clash with the threat.

- When another within your Pace is targeted by a visible threat you can Clash with the threat making yourself the target, moving your Pace if needed. If you cannot move you can do this only within Reach. See Clash page for more details.

Opportunity: Leverage Opportunities created by Maneuvers.

Gifts and Tools: Use Boons, Gifts or Equipment that have a Response option.

Other: Propose a Response. If Bearer and involved Adventurers agree you can attempt it.

Cover

Crumbling pillars, overturned tables and thick underbrush can be used as Cover.

- Cover grants Advantage on Defense Tests
- Cover gives a chance to attempt stealth in the middle of the Conflict

Morale Test

At the start of their Turn when an Adversary has suffered a significant setback they make a Will Burden Test for morale. Additional setbacks impose Disadvantage on the Test.

Example setbacks:

- They are close to death
- Their leader is out of the Conflict
- Half their number is out of the Conflict

When the Morale Test fails Adversary attempts to remove themselves from the Conflict in whatever way they see as most likely to succeed. They will not oppose the party again unless driven to a corner or Significant Time has passed.

Some Adversaries may react to failing morale differently.

Conflict: Actions

Attack

To attack make a Test against one Defense of the adversary. On success inflict damage or a Maneuver.

Physical attacks: Attacks from weapons, fireballs and other external physical threats are opposed with Reflex.

Physical Maneuvers: Grappling, shoving and other similar physical maneuvers can be opposed with Vigor in addition to Reflex.

Mental: Mind affecting attacks are opposed with Will.

Internal: Internal body affecting attacks are opposed with Vigor.

Applying Damage

1. Check the Degree of the Test
2. Roll damage die/dice of the attack and add bonuses
3. Apply Resistance and/or Vulnerability for total damage
4. Reduce Hit-points by total damage
5. Mark Wounds and Test for death if needed

Situational Attack Rules

Charge: On your Turn moving to the range of a melee or thrown weapon allows making an attack with that weapon.

Close Quarters: Only weapons with Intimate quality roll for damage in a grapple or similar close quarters engagement.

Knockout Blow: When you remove adversary from Conflict you can choose to knock them unconscious instead of killing them.

Multiple Targets: When attack has multiple targets only one can use a Response to Clash. All targets that succeed in defense are unaffected. All who fail are affected.

Obstructed Aim: Attacks with Missile and Thrown weapons are made with Disadvantage when there is an adversary within Reach.

Two-weapons: When you wield a weapon in each hand you can use a Response to make an attack with and intent to deal damage.

Conflict: Actions

Advance

Work on a goal. Break a pillar holding the ceiling. Work on a complex lock. Advance a Ritual.

Test to advance Arduous Challenges that are part of the Conflict.

Break

Attempt to remove an effect from self or another. This can be a condition from a Hazard, maneuver or magic.

- If the attempt directly affects a being creating the effect they can use a Response to Clash. For example pulling a grappling adversary away
- Successful Break against a Hazard with a Duration reduces Duration by one

Change Equipment

Rummage through backpack for weapons and tools. Change Equipment. Armor cannot be changed as an Action.

Hold Ground

Prepare to face incoming attackers. Forgo rest of your Turn. You can use your remaining Actions to make Responses.

Move

Move up to your Pace.

- To jump, overcome an obstacle or difficult terrain make a Test. On failure movement is cut short
- Moving through another's space gives them a chance to use a Response to Clash

Study

Test to Search for one time Advantages or useful information.

- Found Advantage can be used by anyone who knows of it by incorporating it to the description of their Action
- Difficulty of Study starts at 10 and increases by +5 every time action is used in Conflict

Use tools and skills

Search for hiding adversary, pick pockets, operate simple devices or drink a potion.

Minor Actions

As a part of an Action character can take a few steps, speak a few words, drop an item, drop to ground or perform other minor acts.

Bearer has the final say on what is considered a minor act.

Conflict: Clash

In Clash both parties choose a goal they aim to achieve and make an opposed Prowess Test. Winners result is resolved.

Both parties can use any Prowess appropriate to their goal.

Example list of goals.

- Damage: Deal damage to opponent. Dealing damage requires prepared weapon able to reach the target
- Position: Move up to your Pace or continue your movement
- Maneuver: Create a Maneuver effect on the adversary
- Magic: Channel magic or use Focus magic against the opponent
- Advance: Work on a goal. For example attempt to open a lock before vampires claws strike you

Clash is always between two adversaries.

Conflict: Maneuvers

Maneuvers place adversary in a difficult positions or provoke them to act recklessly. Pushing an opponent over a battlement, luring a basilisk to step into a hidden trap and aiming an arrow at a gap in the armor are Maneuvers.

- Skill used for Maneuver varies by approach. This can be weapon skill, stealth or other
- When multiple Maneuvers have the same effect only the most recent takes effect

Common Effects

- Gain Advantage against the adversary
- Impose Disadvantage on one Prowess, Defense or Action
- Limit ability. For example prevent movement or deny attack options or Gifts
- Reposition adversary
- Turn adversarys attack against themselves

Maneuver Types & Recovery

Opportunities: Use a Response to take an Action against the target gaining the Maneuver effect on the Action. Opportunity can be given to another character. They can then use a Response to take an Action against the target gaining the Maneuver effect.

For example one character can create a surprise that an ally uses to make an Attack against the target with an Advantage.

Hindrances: Maneuver affects the target until they use an Action to recover. Get back up on their feet for example.

Debilities: Maneuver affects the target until they succeed in a Test to Break the effect. Target can attempt the Test as an Action and at the end of their Turn.

Debilities have to be maintained through use of traps, Focus Magic or grappling the adversary. Maintaining a debility does not require Actions but limits options.

Conflict: Maneuver Examples

Blind: Awareness VS Reflex.
Adversary cannot use sight based Gifts and they are Disadvantaged in all Tests requiring sight.

Daze: Strength VS Reflex / Vigor.
Adversary cannot use Responses.

Disarm: Strength / Awareness VS Reflex / Vigor. One object the adversary is holding is dropped.

Find the Gap: Awareness VS Will. Ignore one Resistance of the adversary.

Shove: Strength VS Reflex / Vigor. Adversary of similar or smaller size is pushed back, over an obstacle or knocked to ground and cannot move. They may take damage if falling from high.

Surprise: Intellect VS Reflex.
Action against this adversary is a Surprise Action.

Lure: Presence VS Will.
Adversary takes an unfavorable or dangerous action ignoring all but obvious threats. For example step into a hidden trap or attack terrain causing harm to themselves.

Vulnerability: Any VS Fitting.
Inflict Prowess Vulnerability on the adversary. Vulnerability is either physical or mental.

Grapple

Putting a bandit in a chokehold and pinning the arm of an ogre is a Grapple.

- Fight is forced into Close Quarters
- Smaller sized grappler cannot move without first breaking the grapple
- Equal sized grapplers can Test to move them and their opponent
- Smaller or equal sized grapplers have Disadvantage on Prowess and Reflex Tests against anyone outside the grapple
- Physical Hindrances created during the grapple persist until the grapple is broken. For example locking an arm of the opponent prevents them from using it to attack

Defy

Issuing a challenge, infuriating or confusing an adversary is a Defy.

- Target has Disadvantage on Prowess Tests against targets other than the one who Defied them
- Mental Hindrances created during Defy persist until the effect is broken

Magic: Channeling & Limits

All beings are connected to magic but only the Gifted can draw power through that connection and alter reality. Those who do take a great risk as magic can be unpredictable and dangerous.

Magic

Magic is a Gift that allows the character to alter reality using their Attunement. Control of flame and reading minds are examples of Magic. There are many Gifts in the game that have a mystical effect. What makes Magical Gifts unique is the channelers ability to alter the effect by giving the magic Power.

- Effects requiring Power are marked with [Power: value]. Adding the effect requires giving the magic value Power
- Channeler can [Exhaust] to give magic one Power. Power can also come from items, Gifts and environments
- Power of magic cannot exceed the channelers Attunement unless stated otherwise

Magic Gifts can be gained as part of character advancement or through items and artefacts.

Channeling

Use of magic is called channeling and it is always an Uncertain act. Adventurer decides the magic they wish to perform, give it power if any and then make a Channeling Test.

- Channeling Test is made with Attunement + appropriate Skill. Usually this Skill is Channeling
- Difficulty of the Test is either static Difficulty of an Obstacle or Hazard or an Opposed Test
- When there is no opposition or obstacle Channeling fails only on a Doomed Effort
- On a Doomed Effort Channeler makes a Will Burden Test against a Mystical Affliction

Limits of Magic

Magic has following general limits.

- Targeted magic requires awareness of the target. Sight or touch for example
- Cover, darkness and distance beyond Far impose Disadvantage on Channeling Tests used for attacks
- When a target is affected by multiple similar magical effects the one with most Power takes effect.

Magic: Duration & Ritual

Duration of Magic

Immediate: Magic is resolved immediately.

Focus: Channeler maintains magic with their willpower.

- Focus magic is marked with [Focus]. Focusing on magic is optional. Focus magic remains in effect until the Focus ends
- Channeling other magic will end the Focus magic
- Focus magic takes effect when:
 - Channeler uses an Action or Response to use the magic
 - Target enters area of magic for the first time in a Round
 - Target ends their Turn while affected by magic
- When the channeler takes an Action to use the magic they can move it to a different location, change targets or alter area of effect
- Whenever there is an attempt to resist or Break Focus magic channeler makes a Channeling Test to oppose
- Suffering damage while holding Focus provokes a Will Burden Test. On failure Focus is broken and the magic ends

Ritual: Magic persists until the Ritual is unraveled.

Ritual

Rituals are performed for two reasons, to give magic permanence and to create powerful magical effects.

- Minor Rituals take a Significant Time to complete and give permanence to effects of Magic Gifts, or create other known effects
- Great Rituals take a Long Time to complete and can create known effects

Mechanically Rituals are Arduous Challenges that create the desired effect on success.

Minor Ritual has number of Steps equal to Power of magic.

- Difficulty of each Step is 10
- Each Step inflicts one Persistent Burden on the Channeler. Burden remains until the ritual is unraveled

Example list of a Minor Ritual effects.

Follower: A being in line with the Gift is created as a follower. Follower has Power Prowess.

Trap / Sentry / Barrier: Create an effect that will harm, alarm or bar.

Enchantment: Improve abilities of a being until the Ritual is unraveled.

Prowess & Defense

Prowess

Prowesses represent broad range of ability. When the character has an active role they add one Prowess as bonus to a Test they make.

Prowesses have two values, active and passive. Active value is added as bonus to Tests. Passive value is the Difficulty for static effects created by the character. Passive Prowess is 10 + active value.

Hiding a camp, preparing a trap and setting a rumour afloat uses Passive Prowess as Difficulty for anyone attempting to notice, avoid or disprove.

Defenses

Defenses represent characters ability to instinctively avoid threats. When the character is directly threatened they add one Defense as a bonus to the Test.

Being attacked, resisting poison, triggering a trap or dodging an area Hazard are direct threats.

When attempting to outrun an adversary, hiding from them or engaging in duel of wits use Prowess instead.

List of Prowesses

Vigor increases hit-point maximum by Vigor bonus.

Will: Composure, focus and willpower. Will protects from mind affecting threats, fear, madness, magic and interrogation.

Skills are honed abilities that help character deal with uncertain situations.

- When character possesses a Skill they add their Skill rating as a bonus on related Tests
- Most Skills are not bound to a specific Prowess and creative combinations are possible. Juggle sledgehammers with Strength and Perform for example
- Only one Prowess and one Skill can ever be added as a bonus
- Skills are rated from 1, proficient to 5, master. Skill cannot be higher than 5 without influence of magic or blessings
- Character cannot have a Skill in Defense. Characters are at their worst when forced to rely on their Defenses

Almost anything can be a Skill. An example list of adventuring Skills can be found on this page but if your adventure calls for a Skill in astral navigation or gunpowder weaponry feel free to expand the list.

Boons & Gifts

Boons and Gifts are special abilities that allow the character to bend the rules of the game to their favour. Boons are gained from a Guide and are removed if the character loses the Guide.

Gifts are gained as a part of character advancement and always remain with the character.

Guides

Guides are strong connections for the character. Guides grant Boons and an access to Gifts. Guides may become cursed changing the Guides Boon into a Curse.

Character can have up to three Guides at a time, each marked into its own slot. Same Guide can be taken multiple times.

Boons tied to Guides are removed when the Guide is removed.

Guide Gifts

Guides grant access to a number of special abilities unique to the Guide. When character gains a Gift during advancement, they can choose from the Gifts listed in their Guides.

Changing Guides

Uncursed Guides can be changed when the character gains a Level. Cursed Guides can be changed only when the Curse is broken.

Curses influence Guides corrupting their ambitions.

- When character contracts a Curse they replace one of their Guide Boons with a Curse making the Guide Cursed
- Cursed Guide cannot be changed until the Curse is broken
- Cursed Guide continues to give access to Gifts for character advancement

Curses have beneficial effects that can be drawn from by stirring the Curse. Option to Stir the Curse is marked with a [Stir] in the text.

Stirring the Curse

Curse Stirs when the character makes a contact with a source of a Curse. For example.

- Using a Gift from a Cursed artefact
- Using powers of a Curse they possess

When a Curse Stirs all effects of the Curse activate. Character then makes a Burden Test with Vigor or Will, Adventurers choice. On a successful Test Curse is kept at bay. On a failure the Curse Spreads.

Spreading Curse

When a Curse Spreads replace an uncursed Guide with the Curse.

If character does not have an uncursed Guide Slot, character is lost to their Curses and leaves to pursue strange goals. To bring them back go on a quest.

Cursed Beings: Being struck by a Cursed attack Stirs the Curse. If the Burden Test fails Curse of the attacking being spreads.

Cursed Hazards: Coming to contact with a Cursed Hazard, for example looking into a possessed mirror, Stirs the Curse. If the Burden Test fails Curse of the Hazard spreads.

Breaking a Curse

While each Curse is unique there are three general strategies to breaking a Curse.

Manifest: Curse can be made to manifest as a being. It can then be fought and driven off. Knowledge of rites is required.

Deed: Performing a deed tied to the Curse will break the Curse. Piece together origins of the Curse to know what is required.

Favour: Gaining favour of something more powerful than the Curse can be a way to break it. But watch who you deal with.

To find what is required to achieve these goals go on a quest. To succeed in this quest few things are helpful.

Aid: It is good to have allies. They can make introductions and seek knowledge. They may have even faced the Curse before.

Knowledge: Knowing where the Curse came from is also knowing its weaknesses.

Places of Power: There are places where currents between worlds are calm. In these places it is easier to gain an audience with great powers and traverse to hidden realms.

Value of Valuables is measured with dice, usually 1-5D6. When item is sold character gains amount rolled times ten Coin

Selling Valuables

When selling Valuables Adventurers can choose to Test to find a right buyer. On success increase total value of Valuables by one die. Each Degree adds or subtracts the number of dice by one. Difficulty is based on the type of valuables and where it is sold.

Traps

Traps create Hazards for unsuspecting victims. Difficulty to notice and resist the trap is the users passive Intellect.

Poisons

Poisons create an internal Vigor or Will Hazard for the victim. Difficulty of the Hazard is passive Intellect of the poisoner.

Poisons have a Duration value which details how many times the poison can affect the target.

In Conflict one Duration is resolved at the end of the victims Turn. When the victim succeeds in a Test against the poison they are unaffected until they Test again.

Treating Poisons

Poisons can be treated as an Action by making an Intellect Test against poisons Difficulty. On success poison loses one Duration.

Rare Goods

Rare goods require a Test to find. On success one piece is available. Each Degree increases available items by one. Difficulty is based on the environment and the item.

Followers

Followers

Extra hands and claws are often useful. Hound can keep watch while you sleep and a bodyguard can hold ghouls at bay while you finish a ritual. They all have their own reasons for adventure and will stay with you as long as those reasons are realized or their bravery lets them.

Followers are Npcs under an Adventurers control. Adventurers decide their actions and roll for their Tests using Followers's Prowess.

Character can have one npc follower.

Followers have two Actions and one Response in a Round and act on the Adventurers Initiative.

Followers are susceptible to Morale and make Morale checks when they suffer significant setbacks. When they fail a Morale check Adventurer loses control over them.

Followers can Exhaust only to use Gifts.

Follower Attributes

Followers have simplified Attributes. They have a single Prowess value that is used as a base for their Defenses, Skills and other attributes. Follower can be either Strong or Capable in an attribute or they dont have an attribute at all.

- Follower adds full Prowess to Tests they are Strong in
- Follower adds half Prowess to Tests they are Capable in
- For anything else they don't add bonuses

Followers size modifies their Hit-points, Wounds, damage and grants some special abilities.

- Small: 3 + Prowess Hit-points, Advantage to Stealth
- Medium: 5 + Prowess Hit-points.
- Large: 10 + Prowess Hit-points, Two Wounds, +1 damage die. Can be used as a mount.

Especially strong followers can have a single Guide. They can use the Guide fully.

To generate a follower randomly roll a 1D6 for their prowess. If they are unlikely to be skilled roll the die with Disadvantage. When hiring among capable people roll the die with Advantage.

Great Adversaries

Lieutenants, monsters and villains are Great Adversaries. They hold a significant role in the story and pose a significant challenge. Great Adversaries follow same basic rules as common adversaries difference comes from Sources of Power.

Sources of Power

Monsters and villains have Sources of Power that function as their Guides. Sources of Power can be used to Draw Strength activating powerful abilities.

- Each Source of Power increases adversarys Prowess and Wounds by +1. If Source of Power is removed these benefits are also removed
- Sources of Power have a passive, always present effect and an active effect that is activated when Strength is Drawn from the Source
- Great Adversary Regains Strength to one Source of Power when they achieve a goal
- Sources of Power have a weakness that can be leveraged to remove the Source from the adversary
- Great Adversary can have one to five Sources of Power

Source of Power Weaknesses

Weakness of the Source varies. Weakness can be as simple as power being housed in an amulet that can be stolen or as complex as demonic contract adversary has to be tricked into breaking.

- Successfully leveraging the weakness removes Source of Power from the adversary
- How to leverage the weakness depends on the Source. Investigating the adversary is wise

Impact of Sources of Power

Sources of Power have a significant effect on adversarys strength and role. Lieutenants and famed monsters might have only one to two Sources and are fitting minor antagonists. True villains should have three to five Sources. Facing them without removing at least one or two should be a deadly challenge.

Types of Sources of Power

1-2 Bonds

3-4 Boons

5-6 Curse

7-8 Domain

9-10 Innate

Sources of Power: Bonds

Relationships, beliefs and ambitions that give strength. Bonds are Sources of Power for adversaries who believe they are working for a greater purpose and hold this purpose at the core of their being. Unfeeling and purely destructive adversaries are unlikely to possess Bonds.

Bond Effects:

- Passive: Adversary can Exhaust to gain bonus on a Test
- Active: Draw Strength from a Bond to regain Hit-points and Break one effect

Special: Bonds cannot be removed, instead they can be leveraged to attempt to remove one other Source of Power. This may have significant impact on adversary's goals and methods.

Weakness: If the adversary is convinced another Source of Power undermines their Bond they make a Will Burden Test. On success Bond remains and the other Source of Power is removed. On failure the Bond is removed.

Bond Examples

- 1 Creed: Adversary believes in vows, laws or principles. If their actions can be shown to undermine this creed a Source of Power is removed.

- 2 Fear: Adversary is afraid and their actions are driven by hidden desperation. Easing the fear removes a Source of Power.

- 3 Glory: Adversary strives for great name and place in history. If their legacy can be shown to be tainted a Source of Power is removed.

- 4 Love: Adversary believes they are acting out of love. If this can be shown to be false a Source of Power is removed.

- 5 Protection: Adversary believes their actions protect the needy. If this is shown to be false a Source of Power is removed.

- 6 Vengeance: Adversary is driven by vengeance. If this is shown to be fruitless or playing into their enemys hand a Source of Power is removed.

Sources of Power: Boons

Boons are special gifts gained or coerced through rituals, pacts and alliances. Boons are often represented by rings, blades, scepters, honour guards or other visible and tangible signs of power.

Weakness: Boon can be stolen or otherwise removed, removing the Source of Power. Amulet can be stolen, alliance can be broken and adversary can be caught without their guardians.

Boon Examples

A Token of Power: Source is housed in an artefact, amulet, sword, flower crown or perhaps a banner. Losing the artefact removes the Source of Power.

Coerced Boon: A being of power is trapped by the adversary, their release will remove the Source of Power.

Honor Guard: Protection of a trusted guard. Luring them away for important missions or catching the adversary without them removes the Source of Power.

Rite of Power: A ritual is maintained daily to ensure the power. If ritual were to fail for a day the Source of Power would be removed.

Watcher: Alliance marked by an aide and a watcher. They will help the adversary as long as they stay the right course. Proof of broken alliance will remove the Source of Power.

Written Pact: Source is gained and detailed by a written pact. Causing the pact to break will remove the Source of Power.

Sources of Power: Curses

Curse gifts the adversary with abilities to commit their deeds and compels them to strange acts. Curses are marked by discreet stigmas.

Weakness: Curses can be broken or momentarily quelled. When this is done adversary loses the Source of Power.

Curse Examples

1 Beast: A monster has been born from their flesh. Driven by hunger and rage.

2 Complete Pact: They are enslaved by a pact with a greater power, no longer in charge of their deeds.

3 Doppelganger: They change faces and names freely, sowing doubt and chaos. No longer able to retain even their sense of self.

5 Revenant: They have become visage of the undying. Reborn again and again until their purpose is complete.

6 Possessed: Whoever they were, now they are the passenger and another soul guides their hands.

Sources of Power: Domains

Adversary is at their most powerful within their chosen domain. Domain itself is powerful through numerous minions at adversarys beg and call, place of power housed in the domain or nature of the place itself and adversarys ability to survive and thrive within.

Weakness: Luring adversary out of their domain removes this Source of Power. Alternatively Domain itself may have a weakness that can be leveraged or mastered to remove the Source of Power.

Domain Examples

1 Dinner Table: A tomb that drains souls of imprisoned, a nest of greater being to parasitize. This place feeds the adversary, remove sustenance to remove the Source of Power.

2 Family Estate: Shadowed alleys, haunted farm or a gilded mansion. Inhabited by adversarys allies. Convince them to abandon the adversary to remove the Source of Power.

3 Hiding Place: Twisting caverns and dark woods. Place filled with secrets, escapes and hiding places. Knowing its secrets is required to remove the Source of Power.

4 Mystic Conduit: Tower where eternal flame burns, temple where honoured divine is tangible, grove whose heart tree bridges worlds. Break the connection to remove the Source of Power.

5 Perilous Step: Unstable ruins, acidic pools. Place filled with dangers, safe for the versed. Equal familiarity is needed to remove the Source of Power.

6 Seat of Power: A great fortress, warcamp or city filled with minions, armies and servants. Bring an army to remove the Source of Power.

Sources of Power: Innate

Power comes from the adversary themselves. Elder vampires, great wyrms and avatars of worshipped spirits are powerful due to their nature. Sorcerers and devotees may gain Innate Sources of Power through dangerous rituals giving parts of themselves to greater beings.

Weakness: Innate Sources of Power come with weakpoints. When the weakness is known it can be attacked provoking a Burden Test in addition to other effects of the attack. On a failed Burden Test the Source of Power is removed. Adversary specific tools, like yew stakes or dragonslayer weapons increase Burden before the Test.

Innate Guide Examples

1 Frail Blood: Adversarys blood is result of unstable sorcerous experiment or otherwise frail. Weak to ingested toxins.

2 Heart of Power: Heart of the adversary is switched leaving a marked scar.

3 Old Wound: Adversary is mighty, but they were brought close to death once and that wound remains their weakness.

4 Paranoia: Adversarys greatness is shadowed by suspicions undermining their ability.

5 Soft Spot: Nigh invulnerable hide has a soft spot waiting for a crippling blow.

6 Two Beings: Adversary has another being within their body, coiled around their spine or a swarm nesting within. This being grants power but is weak.
